DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 7 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Khellah et al..

Khellah et al. (Fig. 3) shows a memory device having all the elements as recited in claims 7 and 8 as follows:

means (20) for precharging the pair of bit lines to a power supply voltage (V_{cc});

means for discharging the pair of bit lines precharged to the power supply voltage for a given period (t_1 - t_2) to set the voltage on the pair of bit lines before read operation of the memory cell at a given voltage (voltage at t_2) lower than the power supply voltage.

means for equalizing voltages (20 and transistors 110 and 120) on the pair of bit lines in both a precharging time and a discharging time of the pair of bit lines.

Since transistors 110 and 120 are activated the same time, the pair of bit lines are equalized to the same voltage.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Wiedmann et al..

Wiedmann et al. discloses a memory device having all the elements as recited in claim 10 as follows:

a six-transistor memory cell (Fig. 5);

means for setting an activation on the word line in read operation of the memory cell at a given voltage (column 2, lines 48—50) lower than a power supply;

means for changing the activation voltage on the word line.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 1-6 are allowed.

6. Claims 9 and 11 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:

The prior art does not teach the following limitations:

means for discharging the dummy bit line to a first voltage lower than the power supply voltage; and means for equalizing the pair of bit lines precharged to the power source voltage and the dummy bit line discharged to the first voltage to set the voltages on the pair of bit lines before read operation of the memory cell at a second voltage power than the power supply voltage.

means for changing a discharging time of the pair of bit lines.

means for changing the activation voltage on the word line.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Brown discloses asynchronous memory self time scheme.
